We use the evidence in household examinations to find clues about an ancestor. But sometimes the information changes as it was transcribed from one book to another or when a person moved to another parish. This is especially true for the younger working class. In this case there are 2 Johanna's born in 1810 in Värsås parish, Skaraborg County, Sweden and modern descendants did not know which one is their ancestor.

We figured out the right one, but discovered an intriguing evolution of evidence. From the household exams we see she is listed as:

Name: Johanna Andersdotter

Born: 10 Feb., 10 Dec., 27 Sept., or 27 Oct. in 1810

Birthplace: Wärsåhs, Walora, Värola, Warola, and Sventorp

The question is, can you see Johanna in each record? Do you see how the evidence connects from one image to another? Follow the steps below to see how well you connect the pieces of evidence. We will be using Arkiv Digital in the lab, but you can use the Swedish archival codes and page numbers to do this using another provider.
